

Working with Judith Holt

By, Sue Kwasnick

Judith Holt is a listener and a creative thinker. She solves design problems, respects her clients and has technical mastery in achieving the project goals.

I have known Judith since 1990 and worked with her since 2000. I met her in a collegial context and, soon after, engaged her as a consulting designer for many projects in the high-end residential design firm I owned until 2006. I continue to refer returning and new customers to Judith as I can trust that they will be well cared for.

When I refer Judith Holt, designer, I know that the clients will feel their wishes will be heard, their home and budgets will be respected, that Judith will work hard for them, put their needs on highest priority, will work in a timely fashion and arrive at creative solutions which bring out the best in the setting. I am completely secure with Judith, as I know my clients have felt as well. I continue to receive feedback from the referrals that people are so pleased to be working with Judith. Judith has a keen mind and utilizes her extensive relationships with tradespersons very well. She is able to address any challenge and always researches the appropriate source if she does not have an immediate solution. She is widely respected for her expertise and creative solutions and she is fully trained in all areas related to environmental concerns and design. The bottom line is that Judith is always a great addition to any team and adds tremendous value to every endeavor with which she is associated. I collaborated with Judith on numerous projects and now refer clients to Judith.
